

Ecstatic Egypt

Do you know anything about Ancient Egypt and mummifying? No? Well I could mummify you if you want? No, ok then, I could...no, maybe...no, probably... no. All right, I won't mummify you, but Egyptians did mummify their dead. It was so they could go to the afterlife. I guess you could just read the rest of this paper if you wanted. Yes that's probably the best way to do it, ok read the rest of this paper to find out about Ancient Egypt.

The Nile River was an important aspect in the beginning of the civilization known as Ancient Egypt. The Nile River was a good source for anything. It gave you food, water, bathing, just about anything. The Nile gave life to the civilization. For one thing, without the Nile, there would be no Egypt. And number two, without out it Egypt would have nothing. No food, no water, no bathing, not even travel. They'd have to walk three months instead of sailing for three days.

There were only about three important pharaohs in the history of Ancient Egypt and their names are King Menes, Queen Hatshepsut, and King Tutankhamen or as I like to call him King Tut. King Menes was the first pharaoh. He united Upper and Lower Egypt to come together as one. Queen Hatshepsut was the first female pharaoh to take the throne. She is also known for her many monuments. King Tutankhamen a.k.a. King Tut is known because his tomb was found on November 4, 1922. It was nearly untouched.

Irrigation is what many Egyptian families did. The definition of irrigation is the watering of land by artificial means to foster plant growth. Irrigation is what you do when there is an annual flood and you need to control the water. It is used to control the water. It is also used for watering crops and plants from a river to a far away home or living space.

Well that was my paper. I hope you truly enjoyed it. So what did you like best?

Oh that was a good choice, I liked that part to. I see we have the same tastes in Egypt.

When do you think Egypt will reign again? Me too, although I hope it's not that soon. I like the U.S.A. too much to give it to Egypt. I'm pretty sure you feel the same way.

Whenever you want to read some good writing, just stop by the website called www.mrferrell.wikispaces.com to read some good writing by me.